North Olympic Waste Reduction Program

The residents of Port Angeles, Sequim, Forks, and the greater Clallam County area are working together to reduce waste, reuse products, and recycle what we have left.

We have to pay to get rid of our waste whether it is buried in the ground or recycled. Therefore our first goal is to reduce the amount of waste generated. Avoid single use (disposable) products. Choose items with less packaging when you shop.

In Clallam County there are many opportunities to reuse items – through garage sales, swap meets, resale stores, etc. The website www.2good2toss.com is a free online material exchange for county and city residents.

Recycling involves collection, separation, transportation, and manufacture. Many people expect recycling to be free, but there are associated costs, especially in rural areas, but recycling usually costs less than garbage.

The manufacture of products made from recycled materials uses less energy and natural resources. Think of recycling as a way to reduce pollution and save natural resources... so buy products made from recycled materials!

Recyclopedia
